Green Corn Omelet.

Take four good sized ears of very tender, sweet corn, remove the grain from the cobs and chop the pulp with the back of the knife. Mix with five well-beaten eggs, add four tablespoonfuls of rich milk, three-quarters of a teaspoonful of salt and two or three dashes of pepper. Heat a frying pan, add butter, put in a good teaspoonful of butter and when thoroughly melted pour in the omelet. Cook with care and fold over as soon as it sets and then cut on a hot plate. Let over corn may be used up in this way.

Creamed Beef.

Half a pound of nice dried beef, thinly shaved; put it in a saucepan or skillet with enough cold water to cover. If the beef seems too salty pour off this water when it boils and put a cup of fresh hot water over the meat. Let it simmer for ten minutes, closely covered. Then put in a cup of good sweet milk and a small tablespoonful of butter. Beat an egg light and stir into a heaping tablespoonful of flour, season with salt, and stir into the beef. Let it simmer about two minutes, stirring well all the time.

Warm Gingerbread.

Two cups flour, one cup New Orleans molasses, half cup butter, one cup warm water, one egg, one dessert spoonful ginger or more if desired, one teaspoonful soda, and half teaspoonful salt. Mix the flour, soda, salt, and ginger thoroughly in the ginger and salt; then put in the other ingredients, mixing the soda with warm water to dissolve, but do not stir until all are in. Beat the mixture until it is smooth and then turn into a well buttered pan. Bake in moderately hot oven until a brown straw comes out dry when it is used to test cake in the middle. Good, hot or cold, and easy to make.

Cherry Souffle.

Melt an ounce of butter in a saucepan and mix in smoothly an ounce of pastry flour, a pinch of salt, cayenne, and half a cup of milk; simmer gently over the fire, and stir constantly until thick as melted butter. Stir in two or three ounces of fresh cherries, finely chopped and drained. Turn into a buttered dish and bake in a moderate oven until the top is brown and the soufflé is puffed. It should only be half filled as the mixture will rise very high. Put a napkin around the dish in the oven and make sure the soufflé is done. It will cook in twenty minutes. Avoid a cool draft when carrying it to the table as the sudden change of temperature may cause it to fall.

Creamed Apple Sauce.

One quart of cold green apple sauce, one light cup of powdered sugar, one cup rich milk—thin cream, if possible, and whites of two eggs beaten to a stiff white froth. If the cream is whipped dry and stiff it may be used without the egg whites.

Sponge Cake.

Mrs. Adams sends us her recipe for a cheap, good sponge cake. Beat yolks of two eggs until thick; gradually beat in a cup of fine granulated sugar; half a teaspoonful each of lemon juice and grated rind of one lemon; add three-eighths of a cup of hot water, the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth, one cup flour sifted with a saltspoon of salt, and a level teaspoonful of baking powder. Bake in a buttered cake tin for forty-five minutes.

Take one catfish weighing three pounds (these are the bullheads or Missouri catfish). Take three pounds of the small Eastern catfish. Roll them in flour, salt and pepper, and fry a delicate brown. Boil a cup of rice tender, season, and put in a platter and steam the fish on the rice. Make a gravy in the pan in which the fish was fried and cut up three medium-sized tomatoes and cook in gravy. Pour over the fish and rice.

Okra.

To serve okra plain, in the Southern way, wash young okra pods well and cut in rings and boil with a small piece of pork or twenty minutes. Serve hot with the pork.

Sauce Lyonnaise for Roasted Tongue. Brown a tablespoonful butter and the same quantity of flour, add liquor from the boiling tongue to make a sauce. Brown separately a little sugar to make a caramel, and put in the sauce. Allow it to boil, then put in a handful of seeded raisins and a few almonds chopped fine. Add a little vinegar and lemon juice to suit the taste.

Two cups milk, one heaping tablespoonful sugar, one tablespoonful corn starch mixed with the sugar, half a cake of grated chocolate. Heat the milk to boiling point, slowly add the sugar, corn starch and chocolate. When thick as custard, set off to cool. Turn into wet molds and put on ice. Serve with sugar and chilled cream.

Vegetables au Gratin.

Oil separately in a hot water a head of savoy cabbage cut into pieces, green peas, asparagus cut into pieces, and the like. When tender drain and sprinkle a little sugar over them. Lay bits of butter in a baking dish, then cabbage, then peas, then asparagus, then peas, then more butter, with a layer of peas, then cheese and so on until all is used. Cover closely and put in a moderate oven. Bake for an hour. Serve with browned butter and bread crumbs.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

A good method of cleaning tennis balls is as follows: Scrub them with soap and water. Do not use the soap out, but put them in the sun to dry.

The most nauseating pox may be given to children if first you allow them to suck a peppermint lozenge, a piece of gum, or a bit of orange peel.

After putting colored clothes through the wringer, rub the rollers with a cloth saturated with paraffin. This will remove the color from them.

To lighten finger nails and improve the hands, cut a fresh lemon in two and rub in well at night. Wash in warm water the next morning.

Never cover up nail or tooth brush on the washstand. The bristles will soften and be spoiled. If you must cover, allow to have the air blowing over them.

Talks of eggs which have been left out of cooking, from which the whites have been used, can be kept three or four days if covered with cold water.

Do not hang white china silk to dry after washing, but wrap after wringing slightly, in a piece of white cloth. Iron dry and it will not turn yellow.

If you have trouble with the milk curdling when you put it on to boil, try adding a pinch of bicarbonate of soda to each quart of milk before putting it on the stove.

To Embellish the Plain Sweater. A smart way to embellish a plain white, mode or tan worsted sweater is to knit for it a collar, cuffs, pocket flaps, and belt in Roman stripe pattern, using chiefly the dark colors, but occasionally breaking the stripes with a few stripes in yellow, green, blue or red.

When the plain-hued sweater is of single-breasted coat shape, the collar, turning over widely from the neck, should rest on the throat, and the broad revers whose points extend half way to the arm-eyes. The points of the deep cuffs at the center and the in-hue belt have pointed ends that cross before the front of the waistline.

Green for Evening.

Nature's shade, the ever-beautiful green, is to have a high place at fashion's court this year for evening wear. Some most exquisite gowns are being made up in emerald green, chrome green, teal, sapphire, and chrysomel. When combined with gold-beaded net trims they are "creations." Indeed, a woman noted for her superbly beautiful evening gown has in her wardrobe a flowing gown of draped emerald green, with a train of gold-beaded net, and a high collar of gold-beaded net. The high green is finished in the center with a single corseque rose in dull gold just at the point where the high collar and low-cut décolleté meet. Green laces draped the sleeveless armholes of the bodice and forms the greater part of the bodice.

Beads Galore.

Beads will play a large part in fashions this year, from the tiny ones embroidered on the diaphanous tulle to the ropes of heavy beads draped from the shoulders of evening gowns. Some of these ropes hang from the shoulders to below the waist line at the back. In a household one grande dame has a sleeveless bodice whose shoulder straps are strands of large pearls.

Another woman, with whom heirlooms are not so common, has a chic little velvet hat in sapphire blue which is greatly enhanced by a wide strap of indestructible mock pearls which fasten under her pretty chin.

A Simple Trimming.

Black stitching is used effectively on sheer white waists of batiste and lawn. There is a simple chic about the little black lines that no amount of lace or embroidery could give. Such a waist is like a piece of white silk with a robe of a woman in half-mourning. The black thread in making the entire waist wherever the stitching shows.

It is best to use white thread for the black stitching, because the black thread showing through the material makes a blurred dark line that is not desirable.

ACCOUNTANCY OFFERS FIELD TO YOUNG MEN

Y. M. C. A. Class Hears Experts Discuss the Necessity for Special Business Training.

H. S. PACE DELIVERS ADDRESS

That the young man who enters the highly specialized business field of our day without a proper training for its duties will be as helpless as the slaves who built the pyramids stone by stone or who sailed with some of the Roman war galleys was one of the statements made to an audience of 200 young men at the Young Men's Christian Association by Homer S. Pace, of New York. The occasion was the fifth annual assembly and fall conference of the Washington School of Business Administration and Accountancy.

The subject of Mr. Pace's address was "A New Profession—The Profession of Business—And the Kind of Education It Demands." He said, in part:

"The young man of a generation ago entered business in a haphazard way, it may be, but he had an equal chance with his fellows. Today the business world is viewing a great change, and the young man with technical training for business is here and there, and each day the number increases."

In contrast to this, Mr. Pace depicted a young man fortified by the triple training in accountancy, law, and economics offered by the Washington School of Business Administration and Accountancy.

"Upon entering the office of the organization of which he is to be a part he notes the building and the ground site it occupies, he thinks of the title, and wonders whether the land is owned in fee simple or held under lease. As he awaits he wonders whether it would be more profitable for the concern to rent or to own; he thinks of the investment principle; it may be, been violation in principles of management and efficiency quite unknown, perhaps, to the men who are of-fending. In short, this young man carries with him knowledge and trained reasoning power."

John T. Kennedy and Charles V. Imlay, of the District bar, instructors in law in the School of Business Administration, spoke briefly.

Charles H. Schnepf, C. P. A., of Baltimore, instructor in accounting in the Baltimore and Washington schools, outlined the new elastic system of instruction which has been recently perfected by the management of the school in preparation for the new profession of accountancy.

Arthur Derrin Call, executive director of the American Peace Society, chairman of the education committee of the Y. M. C. A., presided.

Motion Picture News

A Daily Feature In The Herald

This daily news feature of The Washington Herald is for the benefit of everybody interested in motion pictures.

Suggestions, comments, criticisms, inquiries, and questions invited. Address communications to: Motion Picture Editor, Washington Herald.

A recent development of the publicity service which a number of the managers of the local motion picture theaters are giving their patrons is the interesting programs which they are distributing to their patrons, giving the weeks bill of pictures and story of the plays.

Hi Street Northeast is rapidly becoming the great white way of the Northeast section of the city. The elaborate electrical display of the picture theaters and stores, the crowds of busy folk, and all add to the improvement and attractiveness of this thoroughfare, which has an exceptionally bright commercial future.

Dr. Herbst, president of the Local League of Motion Picture Exhibitors of America, says about twenty-five tickets at $1.00 each have been sold for the get-together dinner scheduled for October 18. In view of the fact that managers of the picture theaters like to be on hand during the evening hours when their places are open, who will look after their interests, if, in essence, they are all a banquetting that night? Maybe a "get-together breakfast" would appeal to a large majority of them, as it would be the fashionable hour of noon.

EDUCATION OF BLIND IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS TOPIC

Arguments for and Against Proposition Made at Hearing Given by Commissioners.

Arguments on the proposition to provide for the instruction of blind children in the public schools of the District were made yesterday at a public hearing granted by the District Commissioners to the National Library for the Blind and the District Columbia Association of Workers for the Blind.

Miss Rita Lorraine Fowler, of the National Library for the Blind, declared that while excellent results had been accomplished at the Maryland Institute for the Blind, where most of the blind children of the District are now educated, she favored the proposition to educate the blind children in the public schools. At present the District government spends in the education of only three blind children whose parents are willing to take the pauper path. Miss Fowler held that the education of blind children in the public schools would stimulate this.

P. S. Hurty, president of the District of Columbia Association of Workers for the Blind, opposed the proposition. He declared that blind children should be educated in an institution where they could receive an education, they can be taught vocations by means of which they can earn a living. Mr. Hurty declared that the public schools were unprepared to teach blind children and if the work was undertaken only a general education could be obtained. R. W. Swann, secretary of the association, also a blind man, advocated the teaching of blind children at institutions especially equipped for that purpose.

The extension of the system for the education of blind children in the public schools was proposed by a committee of the school committee of the Chamber of Commerce, consisting of William T. Gallinger, Myron J. Jones, and Albert Schullies. Others who spoke at the hearing were William J. Gates and Mrs. Charlotte E. Main.
